

Faculty Review of Open eTextbooks

The California Open Educational Resources Council has designed and implemented a faculty review process of the free and open etextbooks showcased within the California Open Online Library for Education (www.cool4ed.org). Faculty from the California Community Colleges, the California State University, and the University of California were invited to review the selected free and open etextbooks using a rubric. Faculty received a stipend for their efforts and funding was provided by the State of California, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Total Points: 23 out of 30

Please provide comments on any aspect of the subject matter of this textbook:

- Very impressive content. I will supplement with outside readings, but theories and important concepts are covered in every chapter. Good depth is provided on topics. I would have liked to have read more organization in chapter 1 and the ensuing chapters regarding remedies to social problems (i.e. individual, community, government, state, national, global, private).
- No test bank. Not that important, but it would have been useful when creating the quizzes for each chapter.

Total Points: 20 out of 35

Please provide comments on any aspect of the instructional design of this textbook:

- This text is straight forward with introductory college level reading. Students would enjoy more relevant photos and charts/tables. Being able to search the text would be useful, but i could not find that option.

Total Points: 15 out of 25

Please provide comments on any editorial aspect of this textbook:

- The PDF opens straight to chapter 1, and there is no table of contents. Neither is there a glossary. Audio elements would be fantastic, but none seen.

Overall Comments

If you were to recommend this textbook to colleagues, what merits of the textbook would you highlight?

- Much better content than in an Introduction to Sociology course text.
- Easy to follow content.

What areas of this textbook require improvement in order for it to be used in your courses?

- I am using it, but I would like to see more web savvy content. I would like to see also more content focused on the theories and how sociologists actually do research.
